Bug Details

You are viewing the details of a bug in status "PENDING". This indicates the bug has been recommended to the customer one way or another by a Test Team Lead who ensures that bugs are not duplicates, are in scope and contain all necessary information. It does not guarantee the bug to be approved as it's still the customers decision in most case to make the final decision.

As the customer reviews the findings from their tests, they will approve or reject bugs accordingly, however each customer works at their own pace. The review timeframe will vary. There are some customers who consistently review reported bugs as they trickle in. For example, the test cycle may still be active, but the customer is already approving or rejecting bugs as they are being reported. On the other hand there are also customers who wait until the test cycle is complete before reviewing the reported bugs. As a general rule of thumb, please allow 35 days after the test cycle locks before sending a request about why your report has not been reviewed yet. You may request a review of a bug that has not been approved or rejected after 35 days after the test cycle has locked (l) by contacting us via <https://www.utest.com/contact-us>.
